THE SALVADORIAN CHILDREN'S EARTHQUAKE TRUST SALCET

Serving vulnerable children and relatives in El Salvador and other disaster-prone countries

SALCET History

SALCET was established as an official charity in 2005 after four years of activity in El Salvador following the devastating earthquake of 2001 in which Chris and Steve took part in the emergency disaster relief operation in conjunction with the children's charity, Compassion.

Since the outset much work has been undertaken in the form of rehabilitation for disaster victims including improved homes and community facilities, improved health provision and referral services, donation of medical equipment, and providing education and training for doctors and medical students on surgical and endoscopy techniques.

During annual visits to El Salvador mobile medical clinics have been undertaken providing primary health care, prescription of pharmaceutical treatment, physiotherapy services including joint injections and basic ophthalmologic testing, spectacle provision and referral for cataract surgery as appropriate.

Many links and networks have been established with doctors and Compassion staff in El Salvador and links with local churches too.

Additionally SALCET has a very special field worker Ruth Cruz who oversees a vital project in the village of San Carlos and manages the referral plans for cataract surgery and other eye problems through an associated charity ASAPROSAR established some years ago by Dr Vicky Guzman.

El Salvador remains disaster prone with vulnerability to earthquakes, flooding, mudslides, volcanic eruptions and the tail end of the hurricanes. Poverty is rife and conflict, violence and gang warfare continue to affect the local people still recovering from the after effects of the civil war which ended in 1992.

The SALCET team raise funds through giving talks to local groups and applying for funds from International grant-making bodies and through regular support from the local church in Busbridge, Godalming.
